"Keep yourselves in the love of God, looking for the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ unto eternal life." Jude 21

This poor world is full of sin, sorrow, pain, and death. If we had this life only – we would be most miserable. But the Christian has an unfailing hope of a holier, happier, sublimer, and more durable world than this. This hope supports him in every scene of earthly conflict and distress.

As the mariner tossed by the storm and tempest, hopes to gain the desired haven;
as the traveler fatigued by the perils and toils of his journey, hopes to reach his own beloved home;
as the soldier harassed by conflict in the field of battle, hopes to conquer and to wear the victor's crown
– so the Christian pilgrim in the midst of his strenuous labors, hopes that he will . . . successfully brave all the storms of life,
finish his course, fight the good fight of faith, and then lay hold on eternal life in his Father's house above.

How beneficial the advice of the Apostle in the context! He refers to a prediction of Christ's respecting the enemies of Christ and of Christians, "mockers in the last time." etc., verse 17-19. And this has come to pass in the present time. Look around and see. They may be mockers of Christianity – but they have no weight. See their characters described. But Christians are to cleave to Christ, and look for Heaven, verse 20, 21.

“My memory is nearly gone, but I remember two things:
that I am a great sinner, and Christ is a great Savior.”

John Newton
