*Take heed to yourselves. You have received a knowledge of the truth.
The Son of God has laid his life down for you to receive as your substitute.
You have come under the sway of many sanctifying influences.
Do not trample the Son of God or make light of his blood or insult the Spirit of grace that is blowing over your soul even now.*

Join us Wednesday evening at 7pm as we continue the DVD series, Dispatches From The Front. This week's episode, I Once Was Blind, will take us deep into the lands of West Africa, lands broken and bloodied by years of horrific civil war, desperate poverty, and dark religion. For centuries Islam and demon worship have held millions in the grip of fear, violence, and blood-guilt. However, the Gospel is changing all of that! Villages are turning to Christ as the Gospel breaks through borders and breaks down altars where human sacrifice was once made to Satan. Take a front-row seat on the frontlines where a dress rehearsal is underway for the day when the ransomed from every nation, tongue, and tribe will see their Savior and sing for joy and wonder at the reach of such grace!
